You Are Here

10.18.09

“You did not choose me, but I chose you and appointed you to go and bear fruit—fruit that will last.” —Jesus, speaking to his followers in John 15.16

Reflect for a moment on Jesus’ words above. If God were to tell you five things that your life should stand for, what would they be?

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.
- 4.
- 5.

Would you characterize your life more like a vacationer on a cruise ship or a crewmember on a Coast Guard cutter? Why?

Why do you think God brought you to SFC?

What is one thing you would like to accomplish in your life?

How would you answer these questions now: Who are you? What are you doing here?

Scripture shares that the Israelites had an ongoing problem of remembering who they were. Despite all the miracles and God-encounters they experienced, they still wandered off. What do you believe may have caused this?

Do you agree that every person is a minister? What would it take for this idea to really become part of the identifying culture of SFC?

How is God calling you to minister within your unique sphere of influence?

Who will you begin praying for today? Write their name down and make it a priority. Ask God to give you wisdom in serving and sharing with them.
